

Wendy L. Bolyard, Ph.D.

Dr. Wendy Bolyard currently serves as associate teaching professor in the School of Public Affairs at CU Denver. She was the founding director of the School's Bachelor of Arts in Public Service program and served as program director for five years. Wendy has worked in higher education for more than 30 years and has been teaching for 20 years. She holds a B.S.J. and M.A. from West Virginia University, and a Ph.D. in Public Affairs from the University of Central Florida. Her teaching interests include leadership and ethics, research and analytic methods, and introducing students to public administration.

Prior to joining CU Denver, Wendy consulted with numerous higher education institutions on performance management and constituent relationship management systems. Wendy has worked for four public universities, a private urban university, a Fortune 500 company, a small nonprofit organization, she sat on the Nonprofit Advisory Board at the University of Central Florida, and served on the Board of Directors for the Autism Society of Colorado.

Wendy is committed to shared governance and helping advance CU Denver toward its strategic goals. She hopes to see CU Denver become an equity serving institution where all faculty are valued.
